ame and a full family name. My user name on eBay, unchanged since 1999, is my full real name, the same as my Gearplace user name.

So no, you are not wishing me luck in my selling efforts. On the contrary, your forked tongue projects your own personal integrity issues.

Your "effort" also seems to reflect a belief, a sign of the times, that basic decency has been abandoned "for good reasons" and that every nonentity with a U.S. address can, on a whim and lying through their teeth, sanction the rest of the world into submission.

First, I had interest in EVERYTHING you had listed for sale, I'm rebuilding a very large PARIS system and need cards ASAP. I do need to consider shipping costs and import duties as costs add up fast getting items to me.

Second, you then would only sell me select cards per EDS card. So while you list items for sale, you have sti pulations for what items you will sell together. I had no terms outside of asking you about secure payment forms. You said bank transfer only. I accepted that and moved on. I had hoped you might change your mind as I still need cards.

Third, I'm not in the US, was not raised in the US... but I do have a US address for easier shipping for most transactions. Please don't judge me, as you know nothing about me. People only judge others based on
