Clean install or so I thought. Three cards, 3 C16s, 1 442.

SPDIF isn't outputting signal

2 of the 3 C-16s send now line to middle of song when double striking =
rewind.

No audio from card B except solo bus.

At start up messages read missing stuff. Nothing about audio = connections

I'm in a creative slump/composers' block - brought on by a combination of external influences, no doubt... too much metal exposure recently, for one - it's hard for me to get out of one mode & into another - I find I have to kind of "purify" or go through "musical detox" from one genre to another, so I listen to something completely opposite of what I've been doing for a period. When I did this all the time it was easy to switch - I could be nimble in terms of working on & contributing to a jazz project one week & a C&W project the next, but it seems with greater distances between projects & more time spent on each particular one, it's harder to get out of a certain mode & get back into something else, like writing, for example (in this case). Ever experience that? Used to be I'd listen to "So" over & over for a day & I was "clear" - not 'so' anymore (pun intended LOL).

and more than any other leading Democrat appears like she might actually be a teensy bit Christian. Not a Bible thumper of course, but her occasional statements about god and family sound at least potentially sincere. So, and I'm asking this sincerely, why is she diabolical? Not annoying (she is), power hungry (comes with wanting the job), unwilling to answer questions straight (so are they all), or maybe a dyke (who cares). But what is diabolical about here, and what will she DO if elected that is so awful and radical and dangerous?

Lastly, I've been telling my lefty academic friends for years that they're going to find religion at some point about states rights. From gay marriage to medical pot nearly every pet issue for lefties will get squashed by federal lawmakers and the federal judiciary. The lefties are going to have to fight for the right of (their own) states to legislate on those issues. They scream and yell and hem and haw and tell me I'm nuts but they have yet to come up with a compelling argument to counter mine. Conservatives (not the ones like me, the other kinds) are going to get their comeuppance probably after the next election for executive power. Seems like a great idea to decide the president is above the law when you're guy is president, but the history of this country is the gradual erosion of judicial and legislative power, i.e. the executive branch rarely gives anything back. I suspect any Democrat who runs against any of the current Republicans will win, and then all of that executive power wrenched away from Congress will be in the hands of the other party. Law of unintended consequences, but I for one will have a hearty belly laugh when the Rush Limbaugh set starts howling about some abuse of executive power when a Democrat is the abuser.

Anyway, enlighten me about Hillary.

I'll post some instructions on my website later today.

I think what is happening is that the PCI bus is tying up the 1 cpu and samples are overflowing a buffer and not making it to disk. With a second CPU. it may be enough to keep things moving smoothly. We'll just have to try it.

All the best,

Realistically, the system will not change unless people, individuals, change. Then individual people will change the system.

Ron Paul seems to me like he wants to make a real change, not just pander to the power elite, so I like him.

I "dodged" the draft by staying in school. I've never cheated on my wife, but before I married I did cheat "with" certain of others' wives (and sometimes I was even aware that they "were" wives). I "did" inhale (among other more radical and destructive behaviours) and now the world is a better place (trust me on this) because I no longer do this, but I don't really have a problem with others partaking of their substance of choice, up to the point that it infringes on my safety.....and back during my salad days, I had no problem lying through my teeth so stay out of trouble regarding possible repercussions from various entities who took issue with my philandering and recreational hobbies. My SAT scores in 1968 could have easily landed me a spot at an ivy league institution but, being a Texas hick, and all, I stayed in the south where I felt I could do the most damage. :). I really had no problem with Bill's history and behavioural propensities. Hell, I could really relate to the guy. He and I had some things in common and I would be the ultimate hypocrite to judge him on moral grounds. OTOH, I certainly had no business being president.

Problem with Bill was that he was supposed to be watching the store and thinking in terms of our national security and energy policy (which are synonymous and completely interrelated) instead of running a popularity contest based on global opinion polls. I don't have the time right now to rehash all of his disastrous energy and foreign policy decisions, but first and foremost, IMO, was to make sure that our "allies" didn't play us and do exactly what they did with turning the sanctions on Sadaam to his advantage and "balancing the budget" on the back of cheap oil while ignoring the declaration of war that was publicly broadcast by Bin Ladin and discouraging domestic energy production while simultaneously ramping up petrochemical imports as a quick fix to create the illusion of a healthy economy propped up on the fantasy that OPEC would be "our buddies".

.....I get your point. I just don't trust her because she was 1/2 of the disaster that was Biliary. She's the epitome of a calculating opportunist.....which, come to think of it, may be exactly what we might need as Secretary of State, or Secretary of War.....but at the same time, there something very Talleyrand'esque about both Biliary/Hilbilly which, in the end, serves their personal interests at the expense of the national interest. Just look at how popular Bill Clinton is after the incredible damage (by omission and incompetence, if nothing else) he did to our national security by allowing the situation in Iraq to fester under the watchful eye of the UN. I think that the enduring "cult of Bill", says more about the idiocy of the American public than it does about the Clinton's though. The Clinton's, being smartn'all, recognize it and feed off it like catfish in a pond full of blood bait.

I think those who are howling about how Bush ignores/circumvents/reinterprets the law are going to be in for more of the same old same old, but it's going to be less about a national security agenda and more about a "Hilary" agenda, which will be determined by popularity polls and their uberleftist buddies in Hollyweed.

Clean install or so I thought. Three cards, 3 C16s, 1 442.

SPDIF isn't outputting signal

2 of the 3 C-16s send now line to middle of song when double striking =
rewind.

No audio from card B except solo bus.

At start up messages read missing stuff. Nothing about audio =
connections

or any of that. I'm too tired to remember but will post it tomorrow.

Not true. Not the case with Gerald Ford, nor Jimmy Carter, in just recent memory.

Nader is a jerk and a self-promoter, but we agree on the point.

The problem with Ron Paul is not that he wouldn't tell the truth, but as with Carter, would his version of truth be wise?

There is a direct quote from him basing his view about the USA specifically on Somalia. Lebanon was certainly an issue as well, but exactly how does that excuse Bill??

Well, this might be difficult for your postmodern delusions to coexist with, but all of it adds up, and no one gets a pass....

The hate for Reagan, from the left, was pretty virulent if you remember.

>Was

>he, and the Democrats, unique in such cowardice? Not by a long shot.

Unique is not the issue, nor will it matter at all to history.
I am glad you agree about Clinton though.

Now, the hard part. Who to elect?

hmmmm...

We always say that "big business" is the problem, or the religious right, or the secular left, or the Soros crowd, but really, suppose the country has simply gotten too big to govern from a central point? Suppose the damn office of the president is simply a rockstar contest with the winner getting to hang with Bono? Suppose there is no one to save us? then what?

DCPuts this whole discussion in a somewhat meta-light:

going with yer gut predicts actual election results

Nope.....I cleaned up my act considerably about 20 years ago.

I hope you're wiser.

there's some debate about that ;o)

Everyone loves JFK. He gets a moral pass and Clinton doesn't?.....probably because he assassinated. If someone would have blown Clinton's head off.....well.....hmmmmn.....OK, nevermind.

If you want, send me your phone number by email, and I'll give you a call tomorrow night. I am truly puzzled. I think this has gone beyond what I can offer help with over email.

Hope to talk to you soon,

Mike
