
Subject: OT: anyone know how to mod Dolby 361
Posted by Rod Lincoln on Wed, 09 May 2007 14:08:47 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

he war on terror.

;o)If it isn't dead, it's probably gonna die because it is probably made in China and they will probably indoctrinate the faders to do subversive things.

;o)

"LaMont&q

Subject: Re: OT: anyone know how to mod Dolby 361
Posted by John Macy on Wed, 09 May 2007 17:43:46 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

>onscreen for that one instance. This would save you a physical I/O in your >rig and make it easier to tweak. What needs to happen is to have one of >these where you can instantiate a number of instances of the unit, tweak the >parameters, freeze them and then open up another one, do the same, etc.

I

>would think you could somehow pull this off but I never tried.

>

>"Neil" <
